THE METHODIST REVIVAL AT UNION HILL SUCCESSFUL

The Methodist revival at Union Hill closed last evening. It had been going on for about two weeks, and was one of the most successful, if not the very best, that was ever held there. The pastor and presiding elder did the preaching until Rev. D. W. Gardner of Shiro came on Tuesday. His sermons were not only enjoyed by all, but they carried conviction with them, and numbers were brought to a higher and better life. There were about thirty-five conversions and recommitments, twenty-five additions to the Methodist Church, twenty by profession of faith and five by reclamation and letter. Despite the rainy weather there were large crowds every service. The neighborhood was greatly revived and built up and brought closer together.

SERVICES AT KURTEN SUNDAY.

The ordination sermon will be preached by Dr. M. E. Weaver, pastor of the First Baptist Church of this city, and various other ministers will be present and take part in the services. Dinner will be served on the ground and The Eagle is requested to extend a cordial invitation to everybody to be present.

BRYAN SHOULD CUT OUT LOST MOTION

Lack of Supervision Causes Waste of Much Money as Well as Energy.

The question of plugging up the leaks in the public work done in Bryan has long been a stump digger for the mayor, the council and all others connected with the city government. How to cut out the lost motion, how to get a hundred cents worth of work for every dollar paid out, is a question many have tackled in times present and past, yet none have been able to find a solution. It looks easy, but it's a job, a job that can't be done under present conditions.

A gentleman now a citizen of Bryan for three years, owning his own home, but prior to that time for seventeen years a citizen of Terrell, gave The Eagle a short comparison today of Bryan methods and Terrell methods. Terrell has the commission form of government, but its method of working the streets was practically the same under the old charter as now.

The gentleman was led to make the comparison by a small piece of street work he saw being done. A pile of dirt was being removed that was scraped up after the street had been swept. Engaged in the work were four negroes, plenty of tools, a good wagon and two big mules. He says a ten-year-old boy could have loaded the dirt as quickly as all of them and after it was loaded equally as slow progress was made as the drivers had to stop and talk with every other negro met. It is an open secret that all the street work of the city is done pretty much in the same way. It is nobody's fault in particular, but because there is no one right on the job supervising every lick of work done.

In Terrell, the gentleman says they have a street commissioner who devotes every minute of his time to the street work and is paid a good salary. He collects the special street tax and reports his collections to the city secretary. Every man who violates a city ordinance is arrested, and if he can't pay his fine, is turned over to the street commissioner and put to work. With the city convicts' work, the fines collected in cash and the special street tax they have sufficient funds to keep all the residence streets in perfect repair and the bridges and culverts built. In addition they have a mower and keep all weeds and grass closely cut in the streets. Every residence street in the city is graded once a year and after each rain they are dragged, and in this way kept in first class condition. They have no tractor, but do the grading with plow and graders drawn by mules, and by grading them once a year it requires but very little time.

The city has three drags, and three streets, two and a half miles long, can be dragged a day. Where there are deep holes all surplus dirt, brick bats, etc., are hauled and they are filled.

Every man, city convict or free labor, who gets a dollar from the city, must first have done a dollar's worth of work. This is made possible because the city has a man right there to see that he does the work.

These observations and comparisons are given not to take a side swipe at anybody, because there is nobody to swipe at, but merely to let the people know how things are done in up-to-date places, and in the hope that some day we may wake up and do likewise.

THE TENNIS TOURNEY.

Gordon Defeated Thomas—Gordon and Cole to Play Off Finals.

The last match of the doubles tournament was postponed again yesterday, Sullivan and Ogden not being able to play. Gordon and Thomas played off the third set of their match, starting where they had left off at deuce set with the score 6-6 in games. Eight games were played before Gordon finally won out. Thomas had the match within one point of won several times, but Gordon pulled out of the hole and took the match. This eliminated Thomas from the tournament, and leaves only Cole and Gordon to play the finals. The final results of the Gordon-Thomas match were, 6-3, 2-6, 10-8. Cole and Gordon played one set of the final match yesterday afternoon and started the second set. The game was called on account of darkness when the score stood 2-2 in games. The first set was taken by Cole, 7-5, in one of the fastest sets played in the tournament. Both men covered the whole court and made almost impossible returns at times. No matches are scheduled for today.
